Cathcart family.

Papers, 1850-1921. ca. 1500 items.

In Minnesota Historical Society collections.

Correspondence, newspaper clippings, and reminiscences of the family of Alexander Henry Cathcart (1820-1899), a pioneer businessman of St. Paul who owned a dry goods shop. The early papers (1850-76) contain many letters from Rebecca (Marshall) Cathcart to her husband Alexander Henry Cathcart while he was on buying trips in the East; letters from William Rainey Marshall, Governor of Minnesota, to his sister Rebecca; letters from John W. Cathcart (d. 1864), Alexander's brother, who was killed in the South during the Civil War; and letters from the Cathcart children who were in the Shattuck School, Faribault, Minn., in the 1860's and 1870's. The letters give much information on social activities in St. Paul, local politics (particularly William R. Marshall's political career), genealogical data, and some information on the Civil War. The bulk of the collection consists of letters (1907-09) written to his mother, by Louis Maxfield (1888-1921), a naval officer and Alexander H. Cathcart's grandson, while on a tour around the world with the U. S. Navy. These letters give minute details on life aboard ship, the number of miles travelled each day, the location of the various ships in the fleet, and detailed descriptions of the various countries visited, including information on the reception given to the fleet by the governments and people of the countries visited. The fleet touched at almost every major coastal city in South and Central America, Atlantic and Pacific side, the cities of the U. S. Pacific coast, Hawaii, New Zealand, Australia, Manila, Yokohama and Tokyo, Japan, Amoy, China, Ceylon, Suez, the North African coast, and Gibraltar. Other Maxfield letters include some (1910-12) telling of cruises in the Caribbean, World War I letters (1917), and a small group of letters (1918-21) describing Maxfield's work in the constructing of dirigibles in England.

Senkler family.

Papers, 1844-1955. ca. 300 items and 7 v.

In Minnesota Historical Society collections.

Correspondence and other papers of George Easton Senkler (1870-1956) a St. Paul physician, his wife, Abigail Louise (Dickson) Senkler (1871-1961), his son, Albert Easton Senkler (1907-1947), his father, Albert Edward Senkler (1842-1899), and his grandfather, Edmund John Senkler (1802-1872). The bulk of the collection is dated 1855-77 and consists of correspondence between Edmund John Senkler and his son Albert Edward, describing Albert's emigration from Brockville, Ont. to Minnesota, pioneer conditions in St. Cloud, Minn. and his medical career in St. Cloud and St. Paul. Edmund John's letters reveal his interests in science, mathematics, astronomy, and climate, contain many references to leading scientists of the period such as Charles Darwin, John B. Cherriman (1823-1908) the mathematician, and Bishop John William Colenso (1814-1883), and give data on the conflict between the new scientific discoveries and orthodox religious beliefs. The correspondence (Jan.-April 1902) of Mrs. George Senkler, written while she was on her wedding trip to Europe gives her impressions of Italy, Paris, Vienna, and London and also describes her meeting with Sir John Strachey (1823-1907) in Italy. The letters (1921-30) of Albert Easton Senkler describe his work in lumber camps in Montana and Washington. The papers of George Easton Senkler include correspondence (1938-55) between him and his relatives in Brockville, Ont., relating to genealogy; diary-medical record books; and a diary (1902) kept on his wedding trip to Europe which contains information on visits to European clinics and hospitals and Senkler's reactions to European medical facilities and practice. Other material in the collection includes letters (1898-1902) from the prominent surgeon William Osler (1849-1919); genealogical data on the Easton family; a lecture (1844) on astronomy by Edmund John Senkler; catalogs from the University of Minnesota, the University of Pennsylvania, and McGill University; and an article from Queen's quarterly (1949) on Edmund John Senkler's letters to George Copeman.

Estate papers, 1806-1919. 3 v. and 1 box.

In Cornell University Library, Collection of Regional History and University Archives (1848)

In part, transcripts (typewritten)

Correspondence, diaries, scrapbooks, schoolgirl poetry and compositions, memorabilia, photos., newspaper clippings, miscellaneous articles, other printed matter, and other papers. Most of the papers are concerned with Emily Babcock's journey to England for her marriage to Dennis R. Alward, assistant secretary of the U. S. Legation in London, and the couple's life in diplomatic and court circles (1865-67). Mrs. Alward's letters to her mother, Mary (Potter) Babcock, describe her presentation to Queen Victoria, and comment on the status, personality, appearance, and costumes of the Queen, members of the Royal family, English noblewomen, and various others, including the Empress Eugénie, Adelina Patti, Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, Mrs. Montgomery Ritchie, Mrs. John Bigelow, and Kate Chase Sprague, and mention events in British politics. Papers of Mrs. Babcock, who accompanied her daughter to England consist of a diary in which she records her impressions of the voyage, the wedding, sights seen in England and France, English customs, and the return trip; and letters to her husband and children. Dennis Alward's papers include three letters from Secretary of State William Seward concerning his appointment to the London post; seven letters from Louis Philippe Albert d'Orleans, comte de Paris, commenting on U. S. Reconstruction policies, the Alabama claims case, and personal matters; two letters in German from the Austrian admiral Wilhelm von Tegetthoff, in which he comments on the American Civil War, naval operations in the eastern Mediterranean, and personal matters; notes from Charlotte Cushman and Katharine, Lady Clarendon. Papers of Mrs. Alward's father, George Reed Babcock consist of licenses and deeds and two letters from Millard Fillmore concerning Whig conventions held in 1846 and 1852. Papers of Mrs. Alward's maternal grandfather, Heman Bradley Potter include licenses, other legal documents, and a typewritten copy of a diary (1810) of the journey he made from Hudson, N. Y. to Buffalo, N. Y.

Correspondence, account books, legal documents, memorabilia, and other papers of the family of Walter Harding Drane (1798-1865) physician and tobacco planter of Clarksville, Tenn. The bulk of the correspondence (1824-65) was written by Dr. Drane and gives insights into such cities as Pittsburgh, Pa., Louisville, Ky., London, Eng., and Paris, France. Drane's letters to his children while they were away in school give paternal advice and deal with various subjects of the day and with current trends in the tobacco market. 47 letters of the Civil War period written by Drane, a volunteer surgeon, and by his sons William, James, and Hugh, who served in the Confederate Army, give information on incidents in Fairfax Co., Va. immediately prior to the war, congressional debates on secession (1860), military service with the 14th Tennessee Infantry, the first battle at Manassas, and the problem of typhoid fever and dysentery among Confederate soldiers. Includes genealogical material on the Drane, Hampton, and Gibson families, and a public address (1829) on national disunion given by James B. McClure.

Fergusson family.

Papers, 1824-1927. 10 ft. (ca. 7000 items)
In Tennessee State Library and Archives.
Correspondence, diaries, legal documents, accounts, speeches, genealogical data, newspaper clippings, photos., and memorabilia. The correspondence of Adam Fergusson, a claims agent and man of considerable political influence in Carthage, Tenn., relates to national and State political issues of the period preceding the Civil War. The papers (1847-1919) of Adam's son William Fergusson include letters written during steamboating voyages on the Cumberland River; a journal (1851) recording a visit to New Orleans to hear Jenny Lind; letter books of love letters containing material concerning social events and church gatherings; Civil War material consisting of military orders, muster rolls, war recollections, family correspondence, and letters written by Fergusson as a lieutenant in Company K, 2d Tennessee Infantry; and correspondence on Reconstruction in Tennessee and other Southern States. Most of the correspondence of William's son Frank relates to his student days (1892-96) at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. A separate folder of the correspondence of Sterling Fergusson, another son of William's, written at the end of the 19th century, reflects his views on evolution and religious beliefs, which challenged the more orthodox teachings of the Christian faith. Other correspondents include besides members of the Fergusson family, William B. Bate, W. B. Campbell, Robert L. Caruthers, Daniel Claiborn, William Cullom, Abbie Dyson, Andrew Ewing, Daniel Graham, Joe C. Guild, Isham G. Harris, Cordell Hull, Benton McMillan, Robert MacNab, J. T. Magruder, A. W. Overton, R. G. Ricks, and Sarah Routt.

PREFACE

The third volume of the National Union Catalog of Manuscript Collections represents another step in the continuing program toward achieving bibliographic control over the vast manuscript resources of American repositories. This effort, begun with generous grants from the Council on Library Resources, Inc., is now carried on with funds appropriated by the Congress to the Library of Congress.

This issue, which includes 2,050 manuscript collections in 98 repositories, brings the total number of collections described in the catalog to 14,374 and the number of contributing institutions to 425.

INTRODUCTION

Descriptions of collections in this volume of the National Union Catalog of Manuscript Collections, like those in earlier volumes, are based on information supplied by the repositories. They follow the same pattern and form although the style of the entries has been slightly changed. Use of 10-point instead of 8-point type for the entire entry has improved readability; the information on the size of the collection has been incorporated with the title, saving a line without changing the order of the information.

Entries are arranged in sequence by the number in the upper right-hand corner. This identification number consists of the last two digits of the year in which the entry was printed by the Library of Congress followed by a serial number. Entries designated by the digits 63 and 64 appear in this volume.

In the first and second volumes of the catalog, the arrangement of entries was determined entirely by the continuous numbers assigned to the various entries as they went to the printer. In the 2-year period covered by the present volume it was possible to submit copy in four groups of several hundred entries each. Within each group the entries are arranged alphabetically by repository and under each repository by collection. Consequently this volume has a degree of recognizable arrangement, which the reader can use advantageously through the guide to entries by repository. Subsequent issues will follow this arrangement.

Index. The index is the indispensable guide to the material in the manuscript collections as described in the catalog. It presents topics and names of persons and places in one alphabet and continues, in general, the policies, forms, and styles adopted in the cumulated index (1959-62), issued as a companion volume to the 1962 catalog. Citations are given to the entry numbers, which are underscored when they represent main entries or, in some cases, the names or subjects about which whole collections are formed.

1. Persons. Similar personal names have been studied and the individuals identified as far as possible by the use of vital dates, place of residence, or occupation; unresolved conflicts of identity resulting from similar names are indicated by asterisks before the names or the citation numbers. For example, *Holmes, Nathaniel (63-378) could not be identified with the Nathaniel Holmes, 1815-1901, listed in the Dictionary of American Biography, or the Nathaniel Holmes listed in the first volume of this catalog (60-1750). Since little is known about the persons designated by asterisks, it is possible that two or more citations following such names may refer to more than one person. An asterisk preceding a particular citation number means that it may not belong to the person under whose name it is listed; for example, the number *64-1290 after Holmes, Oliver Wendell, 1841-1935, may properly refer to Oliver Wendell Holmes, 1809-1894. Users of this index will often have the special knowledge required to resolve such uncertainties.

Descriptions that refer only to material about the estate of a deceased person are indicated under the person's name by the phrase Estate of; however, if the collection also contains other material, the estate is not singled out. The same system applies to the indexing of genealogical material under the name of a family, but genealogists can discover all genealogical material listed by family name under the direct entry GENEALOGY.

Beginning with this index, an attempt has been made to subdivide voluminous citations under personal names by such phrases as Criticism of, Letters to, and Relating to. The nature of the material and the limitations of the catalog descriptions provided by repositories make it impossible to carry out this scheme completely.

2. Places. Historical research in this country is so frequently concerned with study of the places where persons lived or where events occurred that geographic indexing of manuscript material is imperative. This index has an entry for each local place name (city, village, or county) and another for the State in which it is located. Entries under local places are modified by the subjects or topics with which the respective manuscript collections or parts of them appear to deal. Many descriptions do not report specific subjects pertaining to local places, and in such instances place names have been subdivided by such general phrases as Family papers, Personal papers (i. e., of an individual), Letters from, Letters received in, or Resident of.

Every collection with material relating to State or region has been indexed under the name of that political jurisdiction or area, whether or not it has also been indexed under a local place name. The names of these larger jurisdictions and areas have been subdivided by subject and topical terms which are often, though not necessarily, the same as those chosen for direct subject entries; and by such subjects as Economic conditions, History, Politics, Social life, and Travel and description, and such forms as Accounts and Legal documents, which, by their nature, are not appropriate as direct entries. Material that lacks a specific subject or form is entered under Family papers or Personal papers; genealogists should note the limited use of these terms.

3. Subjects. Subject and topical index entries have been chosen to describe as accurately as possible the contents of the various collections. Words and phrases that have several meanings have been explained briefly; note, for example, the explanations under FISH TRADE and FISHERIES. "See" and "see also" references are freely provided to lead the user to related entries.

Subjects are usually subdivided by names of countries, States, or regions and are repeated as subheadings under the names of these countries, States, and regions. In many instances this pattern forms a double or reverse likeness, but, whenever it has been possible to present an extra dimension in an entry or in the subdivisions by changing wording, by using chronology, or by other appropriate devices, the reverse image has been broken. For example, the index entry MERCHANTS is divided chronologically and geographically, while as a subdivision under a place it is unmodified.

Citations to the three cities of Boston, New York, and Philadelphia are not repeated under their respective State names. For example, PHILADELPHIA—Schools is repeated as SCHOOLS—Pennsylvania, but not as PENNSYLVANIA—Schools. Under PENNSYLVANIA—Schools will be found references to schools in all places in that State except Philadelphia.

Inquiries. Questions concerning the manuscript collections described in this catalog should be addressed to the repositories holding them.

Suggestions for the improvement of the catalog and inquiries concerning participation in the cataloging program should be addressed to Mrs. Arline Custer, Head, Manuscripts Section, Descriptive Cataloging Division, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C. 20540.
